

Denver Post
Denver, CO
Circ. 512879
From Page:
6b
8/4/2009
148298

308 ColoradoBusiness

Energy Outreach Colorado is providing an additional $1.04 million this week to emergency assistance sites across the state to help families keep up with energy bills.

DaVita Inc., a Denver-based provider of kidney care services, has been ranked 39th on the Environmental Protection Agency's Fortune 500 List as one of the largest purchasers of green power.

Department of Agriculture's Natural Resources Conservation Service recently announced that Colorado will receive more than $300,000 to fund a local water conservation project in partnership with the Republican River Water Conservation District.

DaVinci Sign Systems of Windsor was recently awarded the sign contract for the Jackson Hole Airport Terminal expansion and renovation in Jackson, Wyo.

Colorado State University this fall will install a two-megawatt solar power plant on the university's Foothills Campus in Fort Collins as part of Xcel Energy Solar Rewards program.

KTS Technologies Inc., a Northglenn-based information technology consulting firm, has acquired privately held Twin Peaks Computer Inc. The Longmont-based information-technology provider will be named Twin Peaks 2 Inc.

Holland & Hart LLP of Denver has moved its Tech Center office to the Village Center Station in Greenwood Village.

Meyer Natural Angus is doubling its office space at Centerra and has launched a new business, Meyer Natural Beef, to sell Angus steaks and other beef products through its website, meyernaturalbeef.com.

Colorado Public Radio has been awarded a grant of $150,000 from the Corporation for Public Broadcasting to research the creation of an information and cultural program service for young and diverse audiences in the Denver community.

MINI of Loveland will break ground on a new MINI dealership Aug. 26 at the Motorplex at Centerra. The facility is expected to open early next year.

GH Phipps Construction Companies of Greenwood Village announced a strategic partnership with Terra Moya Aqua Global Wind Energy Systems, a new manufacturer of wind energy systems.